

Pam House is awarded with The National Association of Women in Construction Outstanding Member of the Year 2011 for Region 14

Pamela House is a Senior Accountant for the New England region of Gilbane Building Company, a national construction management firm. During her 30-year career with Gilbane, Pam has been associated with managing financial reporting for over 40 construction projects across several markets. As a collaborative team member, she has helped her project teams achieve seven Thomas & William Gilbane Project Achievement Awards and has been formally recognized for her own individual success with two regional Excellence Awards. She holds a 10-hour OSHA Certification.

In addition to her professional role within Gilbane, Pam has served in many capacities throughout the community. She has been active in the YWCA of Greater Rhode Island; League of Women Voters of Pawtucket; Rhode Island Special Olympics; and Rebuilding Together. She has served as a mentor and tutor for the students of the Carl Lauro School. Her commitment to the National Association of Women in Construction spans close to 20 years and includes leadership roles of Membership Chairperson, National Convention Delegate, Board of Directors, and Gilbane's liaison to NAWIC's national office, among others. She is a strong advocate for minority and women representation on construction projects and has organized many events during her career to maximize opportunities for MBE/WBE participation.

Pam will now be entered to win the Crystal Vision Achievement Award at 2011 NAWIC Annual Meeting/Convention in September.
